EASY RIDER

Derringer Cycles (7954 1/2 West Third Street, West Hollywood, 323-944-0091; derringercycles.com) Adrian Van Anz has reinvented the wheel, sort of. Inspired by 1920s board-track racing motorcycles, this bike features a hybrid-drive system—you can pedal it old-school or flip on the eco-minded Honda engine and take it up to 35 mph. Large rims and wide tires enhance safety, and an astoundingly economical 180 mpg leaves a light footprint on the environment. Neither a moped nor a motorcycle, this vintage-looking vehicle (available in custom colors with matching helmets) requires no special license, providing the driver is over 16 years old.

EARTH BEAUTIFUL

Vert (1222 Abbot Kinney Boulevard, Venice, 310-581-4266; vertbeautygivex.com) Eco-conscious is the final word of this Venice beauty boutique, which focuses on organic products for the face, body, bath, and home from such "green" suppliers as Naturapetlica, Bare Escentuals, Tai-La, Pralima, and Vedajuna. Proprietor Renata Helfman, a passionate environmentalist and Hollywood makeup artist (Molly Sims and Jennifer Jason Leigh are clients), is almost always on hand to assist customers in choosing and using her products.
