

POWER to the PEDALS

Conceived by industrial designer Adrian Van Anz as a missing link between his Ducati and his Schwinn, this inventive set of wheels takes the compromise out of environmentalism with fuel-economy ratings that can exceed 50-MPG.

MOTO-HYBRID | $10,000 Derringer Cycles. Vivre exclusive. Pedal it, power it, or do a little of both. Charge with white tires and an antiqued brown leather saddle. Please allow 10 weeks for delivery. Measures 70" x 35" x 24". 42048

ENLIGHTENED

Aristotle believed color a drug, and Tapp Francke, an artist with a Master's degree in philosophy, fully agrees. Creating neon words as neon sculpture, Francke creates fonts and selects color and size based on her response to the meanings and feelings evoked by specific words. "Color is a powerful force that evokes emotions that language can't often express," says Francke. To wit: "Hot pink feels like a whirling swirling giggling action that just makes you smile. Light blue is allusive."

"TANGIBLE" | $3,700 Tapp Francke. From the Chromaflux series. Light blue neon tubing. 23" long x 6" high. Wall mountable, some assembly required. Each unique. 42092

branch OUT

Krislyn Meyer-Komarny and her designs have grown quite a cult following for her enchanting one-of-a-kind "trees," created from responsibly harvested woods, moss, feather and jewels. Quite possibly the perfect hybrid, they have all the spirit-lifting wonders of plants—no water required.

JEWEL TREE | $575 KRISLYN Design. Responsibly harvested keishi pearls sparkle like dewdrops on a sandblasted manzanita branch emerging from a quartz planter. Expect yours to have delightful visitors of its own. Approx. 18" H. 41833
